

OPERATION & MAINTENANCE

Colloide offer scheduled & emergency maintenance and operational services

Colloide have a dedicated back up team based in Cookstown but with personnel across Ireland and UK. We provide standard warranty back up on all contracts and also offer scheduled & emergency maintenance and operational services to several contracts.

We are flexible in our approach to these services. Our role may vary from maintenance specialist to principal contractor and the responsibilities that this brings with it. Our costs can be on a fixed price contract or on hourly/daily rates.

We also offer call out facilities for mechanical, electrical and, indeed, process problems during both regular and irregular working hours.

Health & safety is paramount to our provision of services in this area and, through our focus on this, we can boast no reportable accidents over the past 5 years on any of our sites.

We have developed a detailed Health & Safety policy which is reviewed continually. As part of our overall service, we also include;

- Quality Assurance Scheme
- Risk Assessments
- Detailed Method Statements
- Site Management plans
- Environmental Policy
- Site passport scheme (CSR)

Comments on our services include

“very professional”;

“showed common sense in the decision making process”;

“The technical and maintenance back up support was very satisfactory”;

“This work was carried out very satisfactorily and the back up support was also very good”;

“We were pleased with the back-up we have received”.

In order to achieve our very high technical & safety standards, we invest in training to meet our Client’s needs. This includes the following areas;

General H&S training via Construction Skills Register

- Confined Space Working
- Appointed Person for working with crane
- Banksman for working with crane
- Site specific toolbox talks
- Specialist equipment training

Our staff will be equipped with a range of PPE for general site activities as detailed in our H&S policy and Method Statements

Colloide have a comprehensive range of products and services to offer and have a project management and engineering service to match. This strong engineering support team back up all of our installation teams on site and are available to sort out any technical issues that may arise, minimizing delays for our Client.
